Welcome to Haywood County, Tennessee

Welcome to Haywood County, Tennessee, home to the towns of Brownsville and Stanton. Whether you are looking for our generations of musical heritage, the intriguing tales and sites of our storied history, the escape of our Hatchie National Wildlife Refuge or our world-famous food, we've got you covered. We are proudly the home of Ford's Blue Oval City, which by 2025, will be the largest Ford Motor Company facility in the entire world. We are thrilled to be the world hub of the next generation of electric vehicle manufacturing and sustainability.

Consider refreshing the welcome narrative

BlueOval is one word-no space

Welcome to Haywood County, Tennessee

Welcome to Haywood County—home to the towns of Brownsville and Stanton, and a community shaped by generations who have called Haywood County a special place to live, work, and enjoy life.

Haywood County offers a rich musical and cultural heritage, the natural beauty and recreational opportunities of the scenic Hatchie River, quaint downtown, legacy landmarks, historic districts, and the rural landscapes that contribute to a peaceful and fulfilling way of life.

As the home of Ford BlueOval City, a major manufacturing investment announced in 2021, Haywood County is poised for long-term economic growth and continuing opportunities for jobs and infrastructure—while remaining firmly committed to preserving the character, values, and traditions that make our community unique.

As an Acts of Kindness Community, we invite you to visit and consider making Haywood County your home.

COMMISSION RULES MANUAL

- The Haywood County Commission is the county's legislative body (CLB) and governing board for Haywood County Government.
- Commissioners are elected by the citizens of Haywood County and are responsible for adopting the county budget, setting the tax rate, exercising zoning authority in unincorporated areas, and enacting laws authorized by the State of Tennessee.
- The Commission consists of 20 commissioners, with two commissioners elected from each of the county's 10 voting districts. Commissioners serve four-year terms and meet regularly to conduct county business in a transparent and public setting.

Standing Committees

Commission standing committees are advisory and exist to assist the Commission in the performance of its duties. Their charge is to review matters within their areas of responsibility, provide analysis and recommendations, and report back to the full Commission for final action. Standing committees must be authorized by resolutions and are reappointed each October through the nominating process. Their purpose and function are described in the Commission Rules Manual. The Commission has established the following committees by tradition or resolution:

1. Budget
2. Capital Improvement Planning
3. Education
4. Local Government (Rules)
5. Public Safety
6. Solid Waste

The County Commission appoints standing committees annually. The current roster is linked by PDF:
